NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORY

Located on historic Independence Mall, the National Museum of American Jewish History features the more than 360-year history of Jewish life in America. The Museum invites visitors of all backgrounds to share their own stories and reflect on how their histories and identities shape and are shaped by the American experience.

With grand architecture and strict discipline, Eastern State Penitentiary was the world's first true "penitentiary," a prison designed to inspire penitence, or true regret. Its wautted, skylif cells once held many notorious criminals. Tours include the cell blocks, Al Capene's Cell, artist installations, and an audio tour narrated by actor Steve Buscemi.

We are Philadelphia's art museum: A landmark building. A world-renowned collection. A place that welcomes everyone. We connect people with the arts in rich and varied ways, making the experience of the Museum surprising, lively, and always memorable.

PHILADELPHIA ZOO

Animals are on the move like never before at Philadelphia Zoo with Zoo360, a revolutionary system of see-through traits passing through treatops, crossing over pathways and connecting habitats, giving animals amazing opportunities to travel and explore. Now when you move around the Zoo, the Zoo moves around you – only at Philadelphia Zoo.

PLEASE TOUCH MUSEUM®

Recognized as one of the nation's top children's museums, Please Touch Museum offers children and families interactive exhibits, hands on programming, original theatrical performances, art-making creative spaces and more, all included with general admission! Don't miss Daniel Tiger's Neighborhood: A Grr-fic Exhibit, on view through January unity.

NEWS TO TRAVEL BY

Essential Philadelphia

This town is best known for its history and endearing grit. But, it's also a major patron of science and the arts. If you have only limited time to make the most of this exciting metropolis, we can show you how to make the most of it. This month, venture a little outside of the city's center, for a refreshing dose of nature.

90 MINUTES IN:

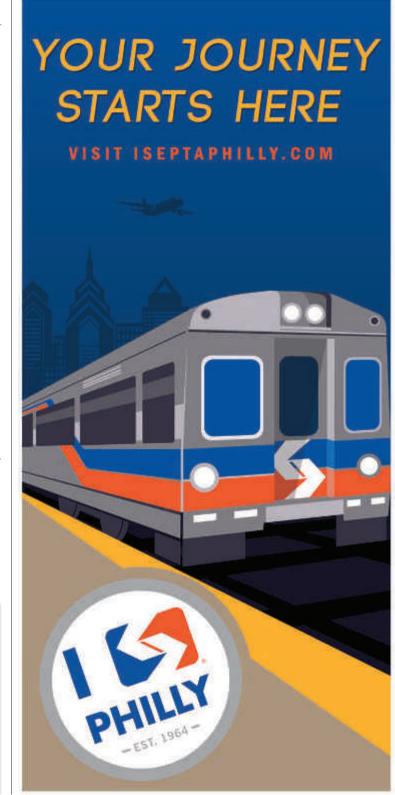

Longwood Gardens

This sprawling space had its beginnings in 1700, when a Quaker named George Peirce purchased 402 acres from city founder William Penn's commissioners. But it wasn't until 1907 that Longwood really got going. Under new owner Pierre du Pont-a devoted gardener-Longwood grew into a showpiece. Visitors today walk among more than 11,000 plant types in impeccably maintained grounds. Meander through the indoor Garden Path, where vellow alders and fuchsia-colored Brazilian plumes flourish. In Peirce's Woods, fall colors fill the 7-acre outdoor oasis. This month, hundreds of chrysanthemums trained into giant orbs and spirals take center stage, while weekend evenings display a spectacular show of lights, music and dancing fountains.

ALL MONTH: "Terror Behind the Walls"

Step into the ruins of Eastern State Penitentiary ... if you dare. The historic prison is once again reborn as a haunted house featuring six spooky spots, from the eerie medical ward to the longabandoned machine shop. Throughout the jail, former "residents" hide, waiting to reach out and grab or even abduct visitors. (Don't worry—the faint of heart can opt to walk through and observe.) This year's frightening fun includes the debut of Blood Yard, where the brave walk a path of bones to a gory site of gnawed and decayed "flesh." Tickets at easternstate.org/buynow.—Amy Gordon

See you at Pat's!

Meet the Artists

This month, Philadelphia Open Studios Tours (POST) pulls back the curtain on the city's creative community, offering easy-to-navigate, self-guided tours that give art lovers a rare opportunity to interact with artists and see them in action. Here, a few favorite stops. For a full list of studios and a schedule, visit www.philaopenstudios.org.—Amy Gordon

OCTOBER 7 South

POST begins in this quadrant of the city, where visitors explore quaint neighborhoods like Bella Vista, Center City East, Queen Village and South Philly.

Don't miss Robert Miller Studios (1323
S. Warnock St.) in East Passyunk, where the space's namesake
showcases striking geometric paintings.

At 1241 Carpenter Studios (1241 Carpenter St., 3rd floor), Elena Bouvier and Marguerita Hagan offer a hands-on experience inspired by pattern and color.

Be sure to check out the work of Dolores Poacelli, one of POST's original participants. At 823 Carpenter Street Studio (823 Carpenter St.), Poacelli uses a variety of media and recycled materials to connect with her audience.

OCTOBER 8 Northeast

Spend Sunday seeking out creative spaces in up-andcoming areas like Fishtown, Kensington and Port Richmond.

At The Putnam Building (1627 N. 2nd St.), visitors browse everything from jewelry and apparel by Marisa Artemisian to oil paintings by Susan O'Reilly and Rachel Constantine.

Five talented artists-in-residence offer up their thought-provoking installations at Glen Foerd on the Delaware (5001 Grant Avenue), a historic estate built in the late 1800s that's impressive in its own right.

Stop by Second
State Press (1400
N. American St.)
to admire colorful prints on paper by
Linda Dubin Garfield, Andrea Snyder and Bobbie Adams.

OCTOBER 14 Northwest

Chestnut Hill , Manayunk and Roxborough are just a few of the delightful neighborhoods on POST's northwest itinerary.

Mt. Airy Contemporary (25 W. Mt. Airy Ave.), an artist-run studio, highlights whimsical abstract work by Andrea Wohl Keefe and intricate drawings inspired by architecture and microbiology from Colin Keefe.

Elfie Harris shows her abstract marble sculptures, photography and modernist stone carvings at 47 Arts (47 E. High St.) in Germantown. Bring the kids to the Schuylkill Center for Environmental Education (8480 Hagy's Mill Road), where creatives from the LandLab artist-inresidence program work on ecologically minded pieces.

OCTOBER 15 West

POST closes its 2017 run in the western part of the city, highlighting venues in enclaves including Brewerytown, Fairmount and Point Breeze.

In the Bebe Benoliel Gallery at the Center for Emerging Visual Artists (237 S. 18th St.), Colette Fu assembles eye-catching, pop-up books.

You may recognize

At Ageless Gardens (2503 Naudain St.), painter Bhavisha Patel creates impressionist representations of Philadelphia landscapes.

Can't get enough art? Luckily, in Philadelphia there are plenty of ways to paint the town.—AKD

"Monument Lab"

In this city of statues to forefathers, Mural Arts Philadelphia's public art and history project seeks to define what constitutes a fitting tribute for today's Philly. Twenty local and international artists present their interpretations, from graffiti-like murals to photographs (see cover) all around town. (Through Nov. 19) Mural Arts Philadelphia, for locations & events: monumentlab.muralarts.ora

"Marcel Duchamp and the 'Fountain' Scandal"

Through photos, publications and other works, this exhibition explores the uproar this pioneering French-American artist caused when he purchased a readymade ceramic urinal, scrawled "R. Mutt" on it and declared it art. (Through Dec. 3) Philadelphia Museum of Art, phila museum.org, 2600 Benjamin Franklin Parkway, 215.763.8100

"Chuck Close Photographs"

Ninety images dating from 1964 to the present create a detailed picture of the prolific American artist's work. Black-and-white maquettes, oversized Polaroids and even daguerreotypes demonstrate the wide reach of Close's talents. (Oct. 6-April 8) Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, pafa.org, 118-128 N. Broad St., 215, 972, 2600

"Speech/Acts"

Six artists join in this immersive and participatory exhibition that explores experimental black poetry and how language shapes African-American experiences. (Through Dec. 23) Institute of Contemporary Art, icaphila. org, 118 S. 36th St., 215.898.7108

"George Sotter: Light and Shadow"

The Bucks County master's dramatic nocturne paintings and little-known stained glass work are examined in this stunning display. (Through Dec. 31)

SIP & SAVOR

Toasting Philly's Wine Revolution

GRAPE EXPECTATIONS

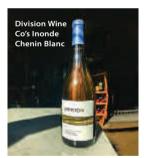

The State of Pennsylvania controls liquor sales and distribution, bringing a whole host of hurdles for importers, wine reps, restaurants and sommeliers. The process can be a headache for wine directors like Patrick Cappiello, one of the New Yorkers behind the gorgeous Walnut Street Café in the ground floor of the FMC tower near 30th Street Station. "It's been challenging understanding all the ins and outs," says Cappiello, who helped Rebelle in Manhattan earn a Michelin star. The good news? The situation is better than it's been in over a century, thanks to dogged industry pros working to improve access to interesting wines from small, independent and low-intervention producers from the new and old worlds. Thanks to Philly-based contacts, Cappiello and his Walnut Street sommelier, Kaitlyn Caruke, have curated a 130-label list loaded with interesting producers from the Finger Lakes to Mosel. Caruke offers 50 selections by the glass, but these days, she's drinking Buddha's Dharma Chenin Blanc from Pax Mahle, who "has been making compelling and delicious wines in Northern California since 1997."—Adam Erace

The Oeno Files

Thanks to industry pros, there's never been a better time in Philadelphia to indulge in a glass (or a bottle) of vino. And there are plenty of places to do it. Here's where to go and what to sip.

 Named one of Wine Enthusiast's 100 Best Wine Restaurants in America earlier this year, Townsend leans on the grape smarts of general manager and certified sommelier, Lauren Harris, who leads weekly tastings with the front-of-house staff. A sense of joy and discovery focuses the list here on the lesser-known wines, like Gruner Silvaner from Germany's Swabian Jura and Listan Negro rom the Canary Islands, which the excellent servers and bartenders at Townsend pour with exactly zero pretense. Drink This: Division Winemaking Co.'s "quenching and exciting" Chenin Blanc

• Bill Eccleston, general manager and sommelier of the stalwart, 27-year-old Ristorante Panorama, offers all 150 of his wines by the glass. "Though the focus is on

Italy, we want to shine the light on a range of grape varieties from classic to obscure and regions from traditional to emerging—all while looking to offer excellent value in every category," he says. So you'll find the three Bs (Barolo, Barbaresco, Brunello), but also Aglianico, Dolcetto, Verdicchio and Vermentino. Drink This: Sparkling Malvasia Nero Rosato from Marche's Cantina Fontezoppa

 "Unfortunately, drinking wine in a restaurant can be intimidating. especially if it's known as a 'wine restaurant," says Joey Campanella, general manager and wine director of A.Kitchen and A.Bar. "Our approach is to make it fun." They do that by focusing the list on small, independent producers and farmers, like third-generation winemaker Johannes Weber, who has a background that staff and guests can relate to. Drink This: A Palomino by Laura Lorenzo for her Da Terra Viticultores label in the Ribeira Sacra, "This rich white is a little bit funky but super foodfriendly and a surprising twist on a grape used primarily for sherry," says Campanella.

Architectural Walking Tours
On these tours, both history and design buffs learn all about Philly through its beautiful buildings. Themes vary, with recent topics covering City Hall (above), Art Deco and the city's "littlest streets," an exploration of intimate enclaves. Groups meet at various locations. $15. www.preservation

Queen Village

This zone draws its character from neighbors patrician Society Hill and the tightly woven ethnic enclaves of South Philly. The result is a low-key pocket that brims with a hip "It" factor. Explore the boutiques on 4th St., stop for a selfie in picturesque Headhouse Square and soak up the local color at popular bars and restaurants. Map 1, J7/8

Neighborhoods

AVENUE OF THE ARTS—Head to the stretch of Broad Street from Washington Avenue north to Glenwood Avenue to find some of the best cultural destinations in town, including the Academy of Music, the Kimmel Center and the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts.

CENTER CITY—Marking the geographical center of the city, Philadelphia's ornate City Hall, topped by a 37-foot statue of city founder William Penn, sits at the intersection of Broad and Market streets.

CHESTNUT HILL—Just outside downtown Philadelphia, this quaint neighborhood is known for upscale dining and shopping, cobblestone streets, and sprawling mansions. The main drag, Germantown Avenue, is one of the oldest streets in the country. SEPTA Regional Rail lines make the area easily accessible from Center City.

CHINATOWN—The Friendship Gate at 10th and Arch streets welcomes visitors to this vibrant zone, the site of numerous Asian restaurants and markets.

FAIRMOUNT—The charming Fairmount neighborhood to the northeast of the Benjamin Franklin Parkway is home to historic Eastern State Penitentiary, as well as quaint rowhouses and restaurants.

FISHTOWN—Originally the hub of the city's shad fishing industry, this emerging neighborhood is becoming populated with artists, young professionals and hip restaurants. To the north of Northern Liberties, roughly defined by the triangle created by the Delaware River, Frankford Avenue and York Street.

FITLER SQUARE—Bounded by Locust and South streets, and extending from 21st Street to the Schuylkill River, this neighborhood is an easy walk from the city's lively commercial areas, yet remains thoroughly residential. Fitler Square park, at 23rd and Pine streets, is a quiet urban oasis.

GERMANTOWN—Just outside downtown Philadelphia, this historic zone is where the city's only Revolutionary War battle was fought. Attractions include the Awbury Arboretum and many historic estates including Cliveden, Stenton and Wyck.

ITALIAN MARKET—The famous Italian Market, where fresh produce and Italian foods are year-round commodities, extends along Ninth Street between Wharton and Fitzwater streets.

JEWELERS' ROW—At the oldest, and one of the largest, diamond districts in America, shoppers explore hundreds of storefronts and showrooms of diamonds, precious stones, platinum and gold at discounted prices. www.jewelersrowphiladelphia. org. Sansom St. between 7th and 8th sts.

MANAYUNK—On a hillside overlooking the Schuylkill River, just seven miles west of Center City, this is a popular area for shopping, dining and nightlife, and draws a young crowd to its restaurant-and-barlined Main Street. SEPTA Regional Rail lines make the area easily accessible from Center City.

MIDTOWN VILLAGE—This thriving, centrally located area is full of independent boutiques, restaurants and lofts. It spans from Market to Spruce streets and from MT. AIRY—Just outside Philly's downtown, this funky, diverse and progressive community offers eclectic shopping and dining options. Most of the commercial district is found along the Germantown Avenue corridor.

NORTH PHILADELPHIA—An expansive area north of Center City, North Philadelphia is bisected by Broad Street and encompasses Temple University.

NORTHERN LIBERTIES—This neighborhood is where the hip and artistic moved for space when Old City became cost prohibitive. The heart of the commercial district is the stretch of Second Street from Spring Garden Street to Girard Avenue, where you'll find The Piazza at Schmidts.

OLD CITY—This district is the home of some of the earliest sites in the birth of the United States, including Independence Hall, the Liberty Bell and Elfreth's Alley, along with top restaurants and chic boutiques.

PARKWAY/MUSEUM DISTRICT—The majestic Ben Franklin Parkway, designed to resemble the Champs-Elysées in Paris, extends northwest from City Hall to the Philadelphia Museum of Art. waterfront is the site of William Penn's arrival in 1682. Attractions include the Independence Seaport Museum, restaurants including Moshulu, a marina, nightlife and historic ships.

PENN'S LANDING—Philadelphia's Delaware River

RITTENHOUSE ROW—Swanky shops and restaurants surround Rittenhouse Square, a lovely urban park on Walnut Street between 18th and 20th streets.

Philadelphia Your Way

UNIQUE TRAVEL RECOMMENDATIONS, FIT TO MATCH YOUR PERSONAL STYLE FIND THE CITY CURATED FOR YOU AT WHERETRAVELER.COM/PHILADELPHIA

With iconic foods and a few James Beard awards under its belt, it's safe to say that Philadelphia is a city centered on good eats. No visit to Philly would be complete without a stop into local favorite (1) Di Bruno Brothers, a gourmet market carrying everything from cured meats to one of the widest selections of cheese in town. Fans of the culinary arts get up close to favorite toques at (2) Cook, a kitchen store/classroom/restaurant hybrid near Rittenhouse Square, where diners learn from guest instructors like "Top Chef" star Jennifer Carroll (above) and dig into gourmet creations. Not quite full yet? Roll on over to (3) Zahav, where Beard winner Michael Solomonov redefines Israeli cuisine with some of the best Middle Eastern dishes (not to mention hummus) in the country.

Philadelphia is home to some of America's most iconic attractions. But venturing away from familiar areas can be equally rewarding. "Mummers," costumed festival-goers, typically have their big day on New Year's. But throughout the year, the (1) Mummers Museum offers an eye-opening look at this unique local tradition, with treasures like elaborate costumes, videos of past parades and even an exhibit that teaches visitors how to strut. At (2) The Rosenbach Museum & Library, find literary gold, like James Joyce's manuscript for "Ulysses" and Maurice Sendak's own collection of first-edition books. In West Fairmount Park, (3) Shofuso Japanese House and Garden, offers insight into the city's Asian roots, with a traditional structure built in Japan and a serene green space, open through Oct. 29.

Sports Geek

With the Eagles, the Phillies, the 76ers and the Flyers, Philadelphia sports lovers have their fair share of teams to cheer on. But this city also offers fans of all stripes plenty of ways to get their game on. Not far outside the city center, (1) DePace Sports Museum in Collingsworth, New Jersey, houses a treasure trove of memorabilia and rare items from the most famous names in football, baseball, basketball and more. A short subway ride to South Philly, (2) Lincoln Financial Field is the home of the city's beloved NFL team. Here, exuberant locals provide pigskin diehards with an unforgettable game-day experience. Don't have tickets? At (3) Founding Fathers Sports Bar and Grill, more than 20 taps fill glasses, while upscale dishes like jambalaya fill plates for watching the big match on big screens.

RIDE PHLASH"

Hop on and off at 22 locations from the Delaware River Waterfront to Fairmount Park, to explore Philadelphia's most popular attractions. HERE ARE JUST A FEW:

DELAWARE RIVER WATERFRONT

AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORY

Located on historic Independence Mall, the National Museum of American Jewish History features the more than 360-year history of Jewish Life in America. The Museum invites visitors of all backgrounds to share their own stories and reflect on how their histories and identities shape and are shaped by the American experience.

With grand architecture and strict discipline, Eastern State Penitentiary was the world's first true "penitentiary," a prison designed to inspire penitence, or true regret. Its vaulted, skylit cells once held many notorious criminals. Tours include the cell blocks, Al Capone's Cell, artist installations, and an audio tour narrated by actor Steve Buscemi.

We are Philadelphia's art museum. A landmark building. A world-renowned collection. A place that welcomes everyone. We connect people with the arts in rich and varied ways, making the experience of the Museum surprising, lively, and always memorable.
